We begin at the bottom of the hill with our sophomore year and reach the summit with graduation. The climb is not an easy one, for we often stumble upon the rocks which are scattered along the way and sometimes we fall. We never quite know what is on the other side of the ravines or the daisy covered meadows, but we climb onward—onward to the summit—onward to the future.

Mr. Jaynes Receives 1965 Hilllife Dedication

Voluntarily Mr. Jaynes assumes office responsibilities to alleviate the morning rush.

From wheeling to dealing, Mr. Jaynes has guided CHHS students for many years. His interest in, dedication to, and compassion for the student body is demonstrated by the wide variety of services he performs for us.

Can you drive? Then, chances are, Mr. Jaynes is the reason why. Throughout our summer vacation, he puts his life into our hands in an effort to teach us the delicate fundamentals of stalling in the intersection of Columbia and Franklin Streets, missing turn-offs, and stopping abruptly.

Have you ever missed a day of school or been a little tardy? Then, chances are, it was Mr. Jaynes who excused your flu or gave you your "one free tardy". Voluntarily, his day begins at 7:30 with attention to administrative details in the office.

Do you have a good job and definite plans to keep it after June? Then, chances are, Mr. Jaynes is the person who helped you find it. Under his guidance, Distributive Education has flourished. Because of his interest in each individual, the DE program has become one of the strongest in the state. He has instilled in these students, in particular, his own earnest enthusiasm.

It is for his warm generosity of time and self that the Senior Class dedicates this 1965 Hilllife to him.

Merchandising and retailing methods comprise the two hour D.E. Class period.

We cannot be wholly sure, as we begin the climb, that we shall make it all the way. Each climber is molded and marked by the particular path he takes and by the places and things he passes along the way to the summit of the hill.

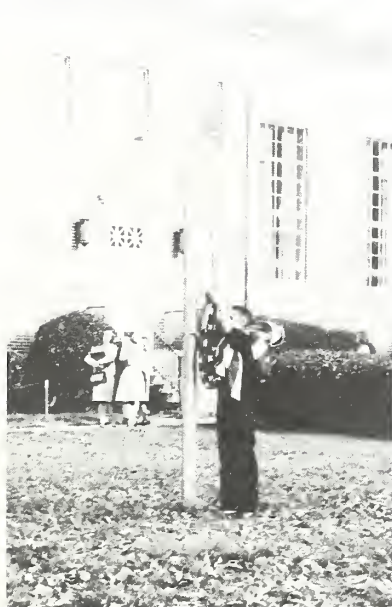

Education is our combined defense and preparation, and the experiences of our high school career are the testing ground for what is to come in the future.

Our journey demands a spirit of adventure and a sense of humor. . . .

. . .Strength of character. . .the courage of our convictions. . . and the willingness to carry out our responsibilities.

. . .It sometimes raises doubt, questions, fatigue, and headaches. . .

. . .but it also consists of friendship, fun, and enjoyment. . .

. . .and as we reach the crest of "our hill," we have the feeling of satisfaction. . .reward. . .
accomplishment. . .and success.

The hills are reared, the seas are scooped in vain
If learning's altar vanish from the plain.

Dr. Thompson puzzles over equipment for the new high school.

All Eyes Turn Toward Facilities of 1966

Planning the construction of our future high school has occupied the majority of Superintendent Howard Thompson's time during his third year as chief administrator for Chapel Hill City Schools. Scheduled for completion in the summer of 1966, the spacious new school, which is patterned after Ben L. Smith High School in Greensboro, will have an eighty acre campus and a capacity for 1200 students.

Last fall strains of "Hello Howard" heralded Dr. Thompson at a banquet held in his honor by the local unit of NECA and CTA. Furthermore, even though "he owes his soul to the whole school board," melodious members of our CHHS faculty considered him worthy of their crooning.

Voted Tarheel of the Week in November for her devoted service to CHHS, our principal Miss May Marshbanks is the only woman to serve as a public high school principal in North Carolina. Aside from her regular duties in directing our administration, she frequently dons her green coat and squishy shoes to trudge up to CHHS in order to pep up the furnace. She is also eagerly looking forward to a wider field of opportunities for her "children" in our future school.

As part of her job, Miss Marshbanks reviews transcripts for seniors' applications to college.

Library and Guidance Extend Helping Hands

Mrs. Helen M. Peacock,
AB, BS Library

Lurking behind the everyday problems of overdue books, unpaid fines, and noise are the major difficulties of our library—lack of shelfspace and enrollment increase which lowers our books per capita. In spite of these problems, Mrs. Helen Peacock still strives to maintain the long-established standard of twenty books per pupil. In an effort to provide a balanced collection, the library has recently acquired eight hundred books which expand our collection to 13,000 volumes. As in previous years, memorial funds enable the library to buy new materials and equipment.

To the serious student at CHHS, our library provides essential references to supplement classroom work.

Mrs. Peacock continues to offer the rigorous library orientation course as part of the sophomore English curriculum.

Moreover, student assistants facilitate the many activities of the library and enable it to function efficiently and effectively.

At one time or another, Mrs. Rebecca Shepard chides, consoles, or chats with every student at CHHS.

Rising sophomores turn to the guidance counselor for assistance in outlining a tentative three-year course of study.

Apprehensive seniors look to her to locate the ideal college campus and to polish up dozens of transcripts which will persuade Harvard to offer the applicants nothing less than full scholarships.

Students eyeing a bank account immediately after graduation seek her advice on employment, often making use of a new occupational file in her office.

Her waiting room is always crowded; her office is always in use; Mrs. Shepard is always in demand.

Last summer she extended her invaluable services beyond the high school as Director of Student Personnel at the Governor's School.

School and Community Combine Efforts for Progress

Elected representatives of both Chapel Hill and Carrboro serve as members of the school board. They are responsible for all policy decisions pertaining to the Chapel Hill City School System—those concerning CHHS include curriculum changes, general regulations, and, currently, outlining of facilities for the new high school.

As part of the PTSA, the faculty, students, and their parents work together for the welfare of the school and pupils. With the construction of the new high school, they postponed all major projects. Nevertheless, the association donated last fall to CHHS two activity buses which "transport" students to many of the games out of town. As in other years, the PTA Thrift Shop finances many of the association's projects.

Student office assistants perform a variety of tasks: running errands, taking telephone messages, checking attendance cards and excuses, as well as sorting mail, depositing money, and acting as receptionists.

In supervising this group, Ginger Kinney handles general secretarial work. Bookkeeping in addition to the typing of transcripts and letters, are also part of her duties.

Office workers Judy Johnson, Carolyn Davis, Jean Douglas, and Barbara Hearn busy themselves while Linda Honeycutt answers the telephone.

Seniors Mary Mac Gregg, Jan Scroggs, Patti Terrill, and Marybeth Ellis wonder if the bus will survive its next trip.

Secretary Mrs. Tripp records a discussion on school policies by school board members Reverend J. R. Manley, Dr. Fred Ellis, Mrs. Ross E. Scroggs, Mr. Gray Culbreath, Mr. Edwin W. Tenney, Dr. Howard E. Thompson, and Mr. Ben E. Perry.

Several members of the cafeteria staff, Miss Voneile Alford, Mrs. Mary Perry, Mr. Wilson Hackney, and Mrs. Annabelle Lloyd prepare the day's meal under Manager Mrs. Maude Holloway's watchful eye.

Assistants Serve CHHS with Devotion

Hardee's stiffest competition, the cafeteria, daily dishes up meals to between sixty-five and seventy percent of the student body. Under the supervision of Mrs. Hilda Moffit, the cafeteria staff also prepares banquets—complete with candles and knives for several school organizations.

Bus drivers hear the cry "head 'em up, ride 'em out" and the modern CHHS drovers hit the trail. A herd of nine buses travels over 250 miles a day to transport students who live one and a half miles from school.

Custodians Thomas Morrow and Thomas Pendergraft, "Big and Little Thomas" respectively, are famous and infamous in their own right. Aside from maintaining the CHHS building, they serve as morale boosters for the entire student body.

As the "meeting place of all arts," English develops the individual by encouraging appreciation and understanding of language and literature. Our English Department trains the student to master the mechanics of the language and to write with clarity and meaning.

Shakespearean drama and comparison of classic and modern novels compose the bulk of sophomore English. In addition to an intensive grammar review, classes also examine poetic development and technique.

The following year, juniors undertake interpretive analysis of American literary works from 1850 to the present. Parallel reading and poetry, novels and plays comprise the rest of the year's work. Both John Whitty, performer in a Carolina Playmaker's production, and author Frances Gray Patton spoke to the classes.

Senior English emphasizes the development of English literature from the time of Beowulf to the twentieth century. Seniors also work extensively with précis writing and structural linguistics as well as with the British short story, essay, and poetry. Climaxing this year is a term paper on an approved subject.

Junior English students under Mrs. Cohen discuss the characteristics of America's western short story.

Facets of Lit. & Grammar

Both Mrs. Gill and Miss Lewis were privileged to teach at the Governor's School last summer.

As a survey of Oriental and European culture, world literature relates music, religion, and art to the writings of these areas. An extensive reading program, in addition to speakers Rabbi Joseph Levine and Reverend Henry Turlington, enrich this senior course.

As still another phase of English, the informal creative writing class allows students to express themselves imaginatively through discussions and compositions. They concentrate on the short story, poetry, and other literary forms. At last report, the class was hard at work on the perfect crime—for a short story, of course. Furthermore, each year the class publishes its best work in a literary magazine.

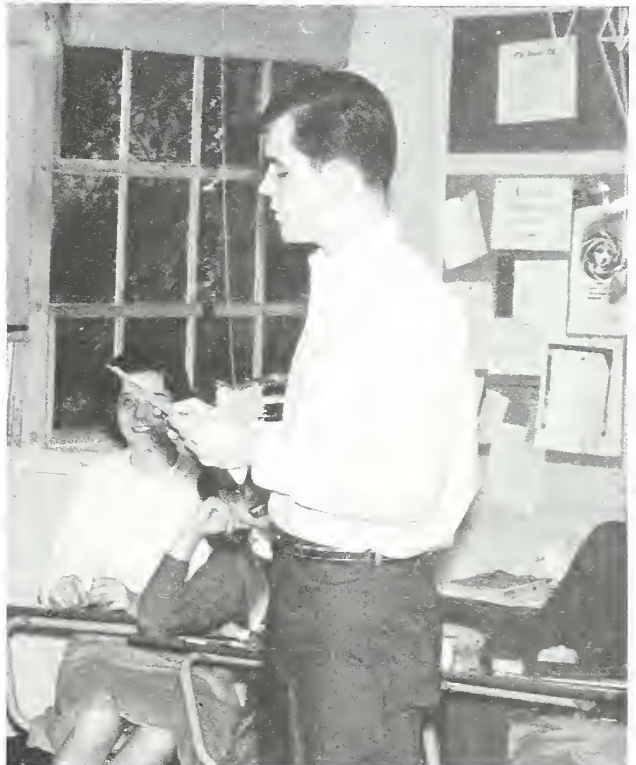

Journalism teaches students the necessary methods and principles applicable to newspaper production. The major concerns of this class are a bi-weekly newspaper the Proconian, which won an All-American rating for its first four issues, and a weekly radio program "Ins and Outs" on WCHL.

Editor-in-chief Robbie Hooker and supervisor Mrs. Gill ponder over galley sheets for the Proconian.

Patti Terrill unveils Turkish life to world literature students.

Social Studies Courses Blend to Build Better World Understanding

In helping students to understand themselves and the world around them, our Social Studies Department endeavors to regard the world from an international point of view.

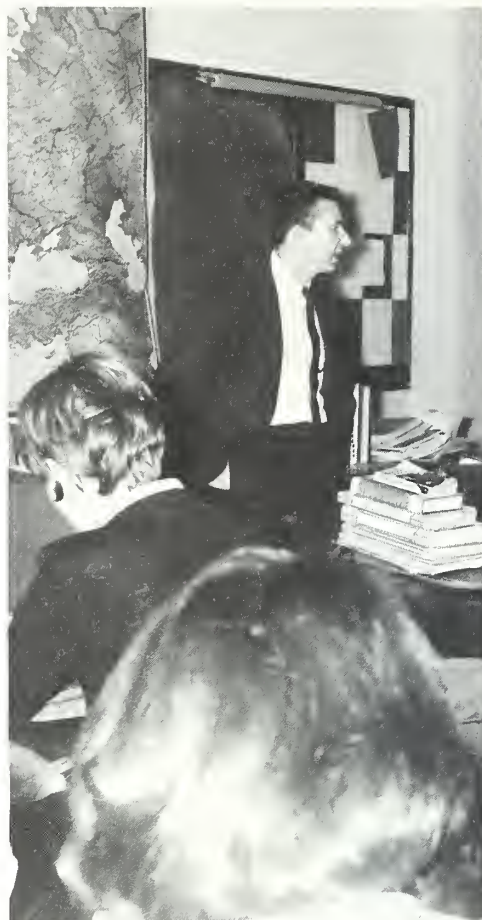

Focusing on the interrelationship of social, political, and economic factors, world geography emphasizes their effects on countries. In this course, a country-by-country survey of cultural background follows an introduction of geographical terms.

United States history strives to generate an understanding and appreciation for the values of democracy and its processes as well as the individual's responsibility within the democratic system. This junior course concentrates on the growth of America and an analysis of our Constitution.

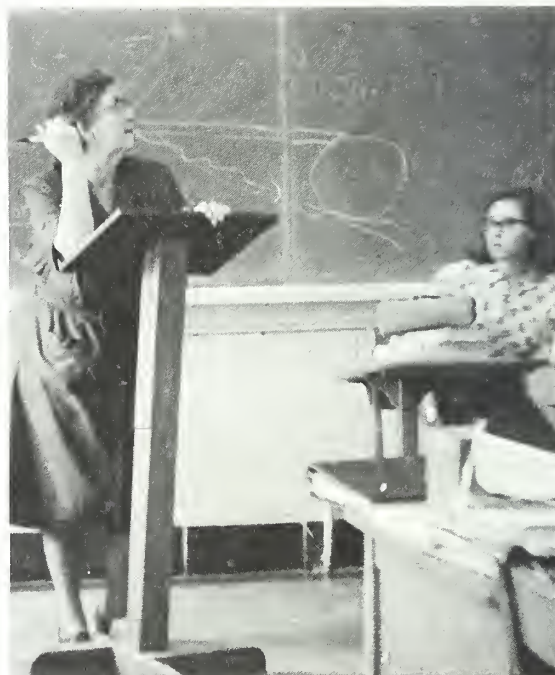

In world history, students trace the rise of mankind and the changes man has made in his way of life from the earliest civilizations to the present. This course also seeks to co-ordinate its material with that of world literature. A survey during the second semester of the last forty years of the twentieth century creates an awareness of current trends as well as their origin and development. This past year world history was changed to the senior year to enable students to gain a larger frame of reference in preparation for this course.

Geared for neither college prep nor vocational students specifically, economics-sociology splits into two semesters of study. Advertising and budgeting, money and banking along with a look at business organizations and the stock market reveal the development of economic competence among nations. During the second, sociology concentrates on the origin and growth of such social problems as juvenile delinquency, alcoholism, and the population explosion.

Adding to all these courses are films, slides, student reports, and speakers such as AFS and UNC students. Furthermore, Miss Helen Wilkin toured Europe this past summer gathering information for her classes, and Mr. Herbert Swain taught at CHHS for six weeks during her absence in the fall.

Mr. Ellington lectures to students on dangers of inflation.

Miss Wilkin explains to Virginia Graham that General Pickett did NOT defeat the Spanish Armada.

Language Students Taste Culture of Foreign Lands

Fifth year French students examine Le Figaro as part of their course.

Mrs. Basile dictates a dialogue to her Spanish students.

With expansion as its byword over the past few years, our tri-lingual Language Department presently offers five years of French and two of both Spanish and Latin.

Included among opportunities for interested French students are a club, the newly initiated monthly newspaper and French V, and a set of French encyclopedias in addition to other new books in the library and a set of taped lectures. For the development of greater comprehension of the language, students in advanced classes do not speak English and aim at increasing their vocabulary through literature. In reading Le Figaro and presenting oral reports, French V students became acquainted with journalistic vocabulary and French personalities.

Activities of the first and second year Spanish classes include sponsoring an honor society, club and newspaper. Furthermore, this past year the library added about forty Spanish novels for use of these students.

Supplementing regular instruction of both courses which emphasize grammar and dialogues as well as literature and culture are native speakers, filmstrips and student reports.

As the basis of many other Romance languages, Latin stresses vocabulary and grammar in translation. An alteration in this program of study now makes possible Latin I and II during the junior and senior years only.

Newly Expanded Math Generate Challenge

Now taught entirely according to the School Mathematics Study Group (MSG) method, the extensive curriculum of our Mathematics Department offers seven different courses aimed at both the college-prep and vocational student.

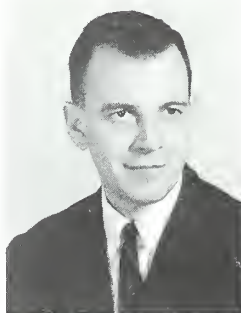

Two years of algebra concentrate on the relationships of numbers; plane geometry focuses on the construction and theories of plane figures. Projects prepared by students in advanced Math IV extend their knowledge by relating math to other fields. Introduced this year for seniors who began Algebra I in the eighth grade, Math V deals with elementary functions and matrix algebra.

Mr. Searcy Jackson, BS, MEd. Mechanical Drawing

Mrs. Marilyn H. Long, BA Algebra I, Consumer Math, Pre-Tech.

and Science Courses and Opportunity

Other aspects of this department are consumer math, a survey of general mathematics; mechanical drawing including orthographic projection, lettering and construction and perspective and three-dimensional drawing. Moreover, the Pre-Tech program offers material for students who are not college bound.

This year the science curriculum added the Pre-Tech course for students particularly interested in health affairs. Concentrating on the development of skills and knowledge in this area, the course allows opportunities for work at North Carolina Memorial Hospital and visiting speakers such as Mrs. Viola Jacobs, head of the Volunteer Office at the hospital.

Representing the basic objective of our Science Department, explanation forms the core of lab sciences.

As the fundamental science of the natural world, physics emphasizes the reasoning behind the law of the universe. In this Physical Science Study Committee (PSSC) course, concepts of light, matter, and electricity grow in the laboratory as students analyze the text, compute problems, and study films. Biology classes observe botany and biology through dissection; whereas experimentation proves principal theories of elements in chemistry. Furthermore, senior science combines all this material in a brief survey of all aspects of nature. In the future, the department hopes to offer an advanced biology course.

Business Prepares Students for Future

In addition to shorthand and two years of typing, our Commercial Department offers Bookkeeping and Business English. Generally, two-thirds of the second-year typing students peck quite successfully, for they secure full or part-time jobs after completing this course. Available for college prep students or for those desiring personal knowledge, Typing-Notetaking covers the rules for letters, outlines, manuscripts, and notecards during the first semester and a modified shorthand the second. New equipment for this year includes a phonograph and a dictaphone.

Technical & Business Skills Aid Vocational Students

Distributive Education and Industrial Co-operative Training furnish experience and training in business and trade.

Noted as outstanding in the state, DE has grown from a part-time interest with meager enrollment at CHHS to one of the largest one-teacher programs in North Carolina. Offered only during the junior and senior years, it prepares students for jobs after high school graduation. Speakers representing various occupations, training films, and field trips to businesses enrich classroom instruction. DE Club activities center around projects at nearby orphanages and homes for the elderly.

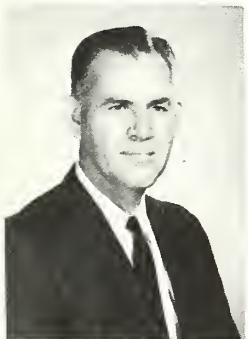

Expanding the DE program, ICT provides on-the-job training in professions such as carpentry, electronics, mechanics, and child care. Furthermore, students acquire experience in drawing and designing, industrial crafts, metal working, and graphic arts.

Mr. Conn cautions his ICT students against technicalities of employment.

Students Perfect Individual Talents in Home Ec & PE

Our well-equipped Home Economics Department offers three years of instruction in the selection and preparation of food as well as training in sewing, child care, and home management. New equipment this year consists of a washer, a dryer, a freezer, and a mixer. Visiting lecturers, the organization of the FHA, and participation in the "Peggy Mann Show" and competition for the Betty Crocker Achievement Scholarship and Crisco Award provide outlets for students with a special interest in home economics.

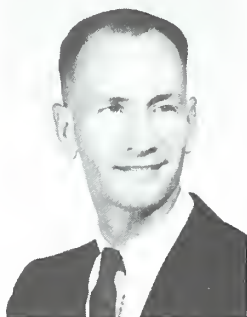

The three-year physical education program furnishes vigorous, competitive exercise. Adding to the usual sports are wiffle ball, hand tennis, shuffle board, and punch ball. To chart the students' progress, physical fitness tests are administered and compared with a national scale.

Art and Music Allow Outlets for Expression

In an introduction to the fundamentals of music, vocal skills and techniques, members of the chorus acquire knowledge of composers and their works through a history of music. Participation in the community Thanksgiving, Christmas caroling, the spring festival and concert, and the commencement programs are among their activities.

Increased enrollment in courses and the establishment of an art club within the past year reflect the renewed popularity of art at CHHS. This two-year program pursues exploration in oils, ceramics, graphic art, sketching, and sculpture. In preparation for numerous art shows in the vicinity, students provide much of their own equipment for personal projects. Slides on the development of art and professors from the UNC Art Department supplement classroom instruction. Apart from her teaching, Miss Fletcher also designs jewelry.

Seniors Bill Bloke and Jerri Womble add final strokes to their water colors.

It was the best of times, it was the worst of times, it was the age of wisdom, it was the age of

Susan Patterson, Jane Graham, and Bev Morgan were sent by the Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion to represent our community at Girls' State. There they studied all phases of municipal, county and state government.

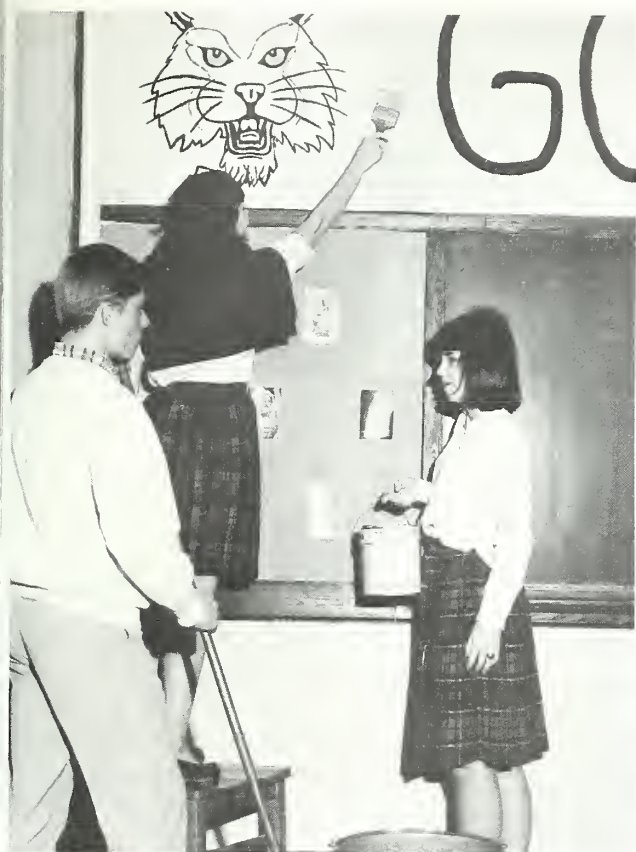

Frances Thomas was awarded the Bausch and Lomb honorary science medal in recognition of her superior scientific aptitude.

Margaret Hayman, LaVerla Peace and Jan Scroggs were chosen for their talents in the academic field and the performing arts to attend an eight week session of the N.C. Governor's School.

Bruce Mansfield, Robbie Hooker, Keith Mansfield, Scott Wallace, Danny Leigh and Scott Thompson were selected from our community to serve as delegates to the North Carolina Boys' State sponsored by the American Legion and the Institute of Government. They spent one week studying and participating in government activities.

Class of '65 Explodes Throughout CHHS Life

As the first wave of the postwar baby boom, the sophomore class of '63 exploded into CHHS life. When the dust cleared, it was evident that the enthusiasm shown in the first few weeks was to carry us through the entire year. We were determined, curious, ambitious, energetic, fresh... hell-raisin'. Like the plague, with astonishing impact and energy, we infected every phase of activity. We were green, wet behind the ears. Spontaneously, we tried our hand in everything. We took over.

Once oriented to the traditions and demands of high school, we tried not to let our work for the Junior-Senior hinder our enthusiasm for our studies. Crumbily bake sales, conquering frags and earthworms, dissecting Julius Caesar, auctioning students on Slave Day, selling calendars, having the winning performance in stunt night, and drawing squares and triangles, alternated in their demands on our time and energy. We contaminated sports, and were proud when our classmates brought in honors. Donnie Clark made all-conference in football. Under President Nancy Aycock, we united as a strong class and our "BOOM" was heard throughout the school.

Seniors Pete Beebe, Jane Pettis and Ann McGowan pitch in an fall Work Day.

Junior Marshals Danny Leigh, Kern Buckner, Nancy Aycock, Steve Oakley, Ann Phillips, Scott Thompson and Linda Dixan escort senior graduates.

Tommy Brickhouse and Gene Hines receive long awaited senior rings.

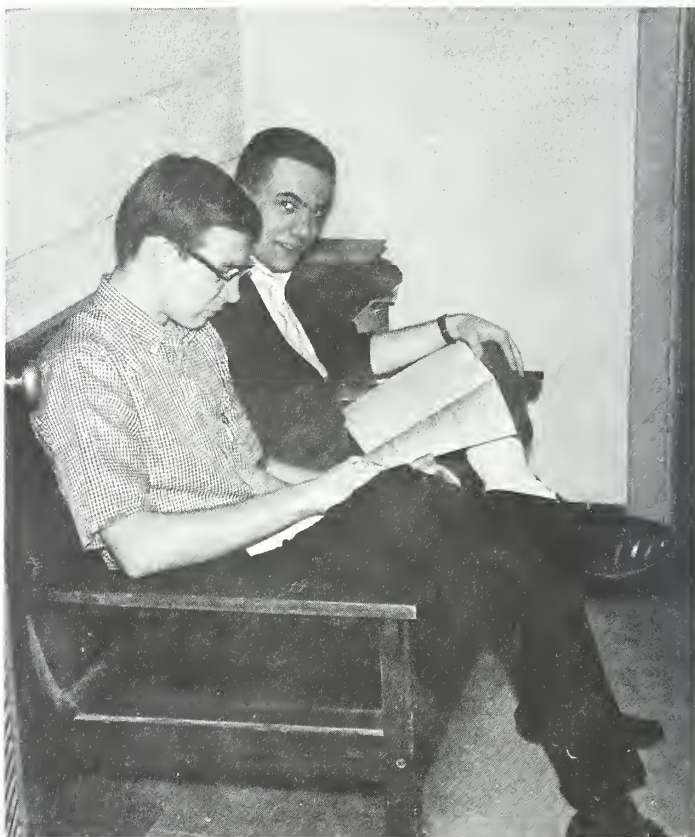

Ah! The freedom of no homework.

As juniors, we became leaders, as well as supporters and participators. Ann McGowan, Ann Phillips, and Danny Leigh held executive offices in our Student Council. We gained skill on the playing fields, as well as in the classroom.

We continued to study the mysteries of mathematics, and explore the depths of many novels, such as: Moby Dick, A Separate Peace, and The Scarlet Letter.

Even with our extensive studies, we again found time to plan another successful calendar, and the fabulous Junior-Follies production of "Hey, Look Us Over"—complete with the Beatles and twenty-four top-hatted, red-legged chorus girls. We made $350.00, and broke another record—which seemed characteristic of our class. After enough money had been raised, we selected a theme, "Paint the Town Red," and began preliminary work on the Junior-Senior. Studies were completely abandoned the week before May 15th, as we stayed up until one and two o'clock transforming the gymnasium into New York City. We really "Painted the Town Red." New York was never gayer than on the night of the Junior-Senior, when we danced until twelve, had pizza at the Rec until two, and, then took off for Ocean Drive for a final fling before exams. We came back Sunday night, sun-burned and bleary-eyed, and a little sad that we wouldn't be juniors again next year.

Seniors seek guidance for colleges.

Referee and team receive word of encouragement from seniors.

These take and hold well, The treasures of youth;
In your hand, beauty; In your heart, truth.

Edith Revely

As we tramped in the doors of CHHS in September of '64, we realized that we were at last Seniors! We had signed up for Senior courses—World Literature, World History, English IV, Advanced French, Physics and settled down, probably sooner than our underclassmen, to the high school routine, to which we had become accustomed.

We were now leaders of the school—Nancy Aycock occupied the office of President of the Council; Kern Buckner, Vice-President; Jane Pettis, Chief Justice; and Linda Dixon, Secretary. We led all the teams—football, basketball, swimming, track, tennis, baseball, golf and cross-country!

class, as the Junior-Senior had been in both our sophomore and junior years. We began drifting apart, and we could see, from the summit of our small hill, our horizons stretching beyond the halls of CHHS. Our thoughts were tangled in college applications, new jobs, SAT's...and graduation. We began choosing colleges and future careers...and waiting for replies of acceptance. We won...and lost our last ball games. We received class rings, and ordered graduation invitations. We wrote term papers. We waited. We wrote a last "Will and Testament." We received annuals with our names printed in gold on the covers, and we busily collected the new addresses of our classmates, who, in September would be spread throughout the United States. We waited. We had a "Senior Picnic" and final exams. Finally, in June of '65, we graduated...yet, we felt a sensation of sadness as we realized we were leaving a part of our lives. We left CHHS enthusiastically.

Student Council Exemplifies

Tommy Brickhouse purchases paper from Sarah Watson at the school store.

The CHHS Student Council, composed of an executive council elected by the student body and of a representative elected by each homeroom, seeks to promote leadership, citizenship, and self-government. The student government organization provides the officers and representatives with opportunities for leadership and self-government through the initiation of projects, reports to the homerooms, and the Council meetings themselves. The opportunities for the student body to develop citizenship and to take part in the student government are furnished by the election of Student Council officers, by the various projects of the Council, and by the open Council meetings.

The Constitution Committee studies the constitution and the point system to determine necessary changes. The House and Grounds Committee is in charge of the monitor system and the appearance of the school campus.

The Social Committee plans social functions sponsored by the Student Council. The Publicity Committee publicizes all SCA activities and records them in a scrapbook.

The Student Council publishes the Key, operates the school store, heads Homecoming activities, sponsors school clean-up days, and gives a mid-year report of its activities. The Council is also in charge of the Thanksgiving and Christmas projects. This year, at Thanksgiving, the student body gave canned goods to needy families and, at Christmas, planned to continue supporting Thom, a Vietnamese child.

Library Club Assists in Library Maintenance

The members of the Library Club volunteer their time to help Mrs. Peacock maintain the library. They write and deliver overdue notices, shelve and check out books, operate the movie projectors, and arrange bulletin boards. In addition, the club sells paperback books and decorates the library each Christmas. The club attends the district and state conventions of the North Carolina High School Library Association. Scholarship, character, leadership, and service are the prerequisites for membership in the National Honor Society. Juniors and seniors who have given service to the school and community, have shown qualities of leadership and character, and have maintained a high "B" average are selected.

The Honor Society plans Senior Seminars to benefit both its members and the entire student body. During the national election campaigns, the members sponsored a successful Johnson-Goldwater debate. In the spring, a program on college applications and admissions was presented to juniors and sophomores.

Spanish Honor Society Recognizes Scholastic Merit

The Juan Ramon Jimenez chapter of the Spanish National Honor Society has as its motto, "Todos a Uno" (All for One). With this phrase in mind, the members encourage and help other students to excel in their study of the Hispanic language. To become a member, a student must maintain an "A" average in Spanish I and a "B" average in Spanish II. The Society's programs feature native speakers and movies from Spanish-speaking countries. For the past three years they have placed first as a team in the state Spanish examination.

American Field Service Program

Tonko Suzuki walks to class with Marybeth and Francie Ellis her American sisters.

"Walk together, talk together, O ye peoples of the earth. Then and only then shall ye have peace." This motto states the goal of the American Field Service. Through this program, students from foreign countries come to the United States while American students live abroad. Promotion of world-wide friendship and understanding is the goal of the American Field Service.

Last year, students interested in the American Field Service and its success at CHHS organized the AFS Club. An indication of the club's success is its growth from twelve members to this year's group of sixty. The club's purpose is to make our exchange students feel welcome and to aid them whenever possible.

The club's Big Brother-Big Sister program enabled this year's exchange students to meet more people and to participate in many activities.

Tonko Suzuki, from Tokyo, Japan, spent this year as a senior at CHHS, living with the Fred W. Ellis family. Luiza Maia, our AFS student from Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, lived this year with the Donald Haymans. She came to CHHS in February after spending the first semester in New Jersey.

CHHS'er Libby Cornwell spent a year in Ennet-Baden, Switzerland, living with the Otto Kohli family. In her family are two sisters Annemarie, 18 and Monika, 14.

French Clubs Explore Culture of La France

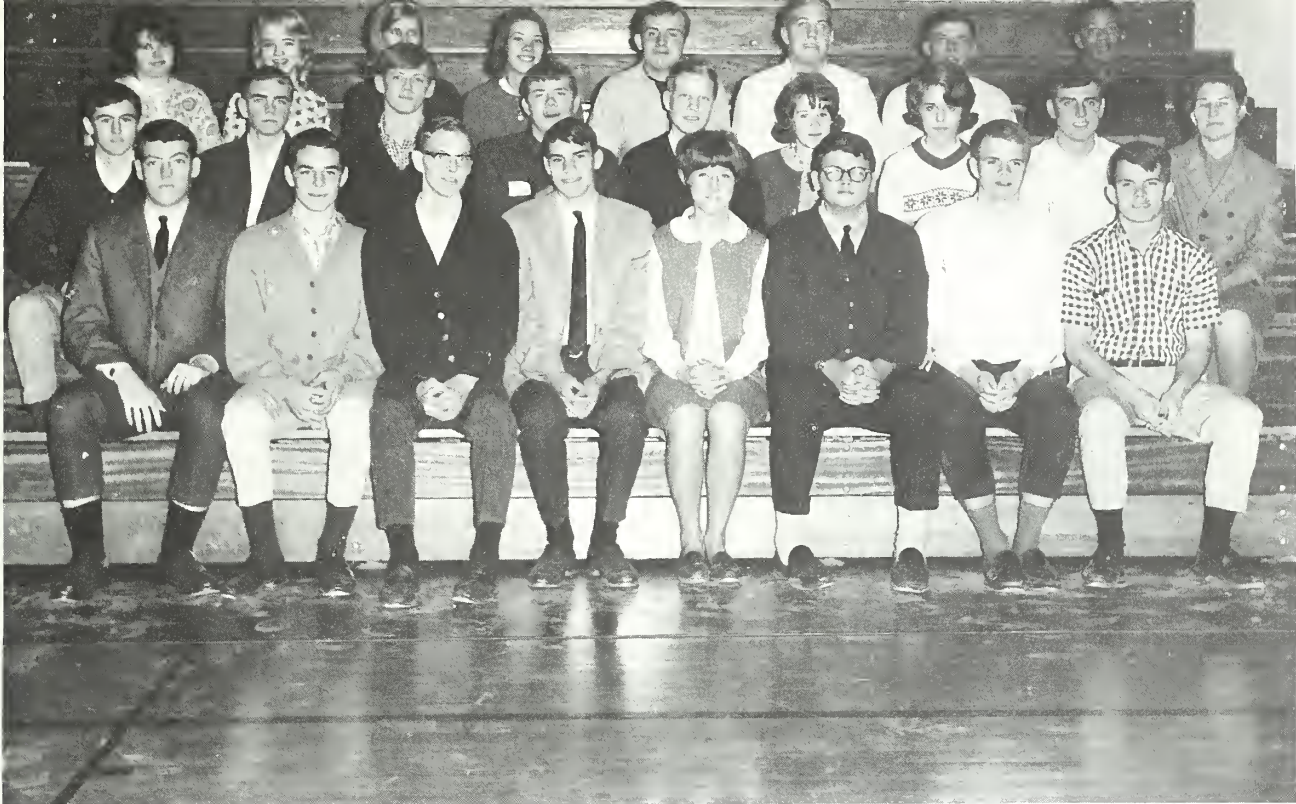

John Radford, Vic MacIntosh, and Pam Wheless check articles for Le Faux Pas.

This year the French Club at CHHS separated into two groups—Le Cercle Francais, for first and second year students; and Le Nouveau Cercle Francais, for third, fourth, and fifth year students. Members of each club benefit according to their own level of French knowledge. Both clubs are interested in developing their knowledge of France and its culture. Le Nouveau Cercle Francais published a newspaper Le Faux Pas (The Mistake).

One of the highlights of the year for Le Nouveau Cercle was a full course dinner at the home of M. Bougard.

Spanish Club Studies Hispanic Customs

Adelante, siempre adelante (Onward, always onward) is the motto of the CHHS Spanish Club which enables members to learn about many customs and ways of life in Spanish-speaking countries. The club has tried throughout the year to increase interest in the Spanish language and to secure a third year of Spanish in the curriculum. Programs planned for the year were a play of the Nativity for Spanish-speaking children in Chapel Hill and a celebration of Pan American Day, April fourteenth. Students who are now taking or have completed second year Spanish are eligible for membership in the Spanish Club.

Monogram Club Exhibits Spirit and Sportsmanship

Shirkers Johnny Brown and Jamie Gutierrez shut the gym door on after-game clean-up.

Students who have received a letter, cheerleaders, and seniors participating in any sport qualify for membership in the Monogram Club. During the basketball games, the members operate a concession stand and afterwards, they clean up the gym. Profits from this concession stand will be used in the new school. Together with the Student Council, the Monogram Club sponsors several clean-up days, and the members organize student use of the gym during lunch periods.

FCA Explores the Athlete's Role in Christianity

On alternate Wednesday evenings, the Fellowship of Christian Athletes meets to discuss such topics as the responsibilities of an athlete as a Christian, Christian vocations, and general religious beliefs. Their programs often feature films which all students are invited to view. After the program the members divide into "huddle groups," often led by local ministers, for discussion.

The FCA Club was organized last year largely through the efforts of Danny Leigh, the president. One purpose of the club is to explore the role of Christianity in athletics.

The Hilllife staff strives to create a yearbook that is a meaningful memento of the names, faces, and activities at CHHS. The editor and the advisor, Mrs. Cahen, select the staff from student applications. Each editor — class, clubs, sports, features, ads — is responsible for the production of his section, while the editor-in-chief and the assistant editor are in charge of unifying the entire annual.

Soon after school opened, work began and continued, sometimes frantically, until the final deadline. After voting on the theme early in September, each editor turned his attention to designing layouts, drawing dummy sheets, and arranging to have pictures taken.

Members began to search for action-filled headlines and interesting copy as the deadline appeared on the horizon. Sections were turned in, and in January, the editorial staff proofread and typed the entire master layout forms.

By the beginning of the new semester, the 1965 Hilllife was sent to the Hunter Publishing Company to return, completed, at the end of the year.

Lawrence McAdams, Ned Durham, Sheila Bynum, and Judy Lloyd display VIC Club banner and shield.

The Vocational Industrial Club at CHHS is an extension of the Industrial Cooperative Training program which enables students to prepare for skilled vocations through on-the-job training in areas exclusive of retailing.

Club meetings include classroom discussions, movies, and guest speakers. Programs are often planned jointly with the DE Club.

The club has won the Gold Award of merit for club activities, was first place runner-up as "Most Outstanding Club in the State", and had a first place runner-up as "Outstanding Student of the Year".

Faculty Sponsor: Mr. Aaron Conn.

Civic consciousness, social intelligence, leadership, and vocational understanding are the qualities that the Distributive Education program helps its students to develop. Through classes in retailing and economics, as well as after school jobs, DE students develop a respect for education in marketing and distribution in addition to an understanding of the responsibilities of citizenship in our free enterprise system.

Those students in the DE program are members of the Distributive Education Club. This year, projects included a twenty-five dollar contribution to the Baptist Children's Orphanage and one to the Distributive Education Club of American's Scholarship fund. State and district conventions are attended regularly.

Science Clubs Encourage Individual Research

The Biology and Chemistry Clubs at CHHS stimulate interest and provide opportunities for research in various scientific fields outside the classroom.

In 1962, the Science Club separated into these two sections so that interest in each branch of science might be more fully developed. The Biology Club conducts special experiments and projects; the Chemistry Club studies such topics as radio and light.

Students Plan Careers as Future Homemakers

Students who are taking, or have taken, a home economics course form the Future Homemakers of America. Improvement of personal, family, and community living is the club's goal. Throughout the year, the club has watered the plants in the home economics room and maintained the faculty lounge. At Christmas, the group made favors for the patients at Memorial Hospital. A cook-out was planned for the end of the year. The faculty sponsor is Mrs. Stella Johnston.

Chorus Strives for Vocal Improvement

At Chapel Hill High School, the students enrolled in chorus strive for vocal improvement and a knowledge of the various types of music. The chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Madge Horry, planned programs for Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Commencement.

This year, they have worked on the following pieces: "The Sea Hath Its Pearls", "Seguidillo", "It's a Grand Night for Singing", and "Lift Thine Eyes".

Desire and Ability Lead Wildcats to the State Playoffs

"District III Coach of the Year," Bab Culton, inspired the 1964 Wildcats to come back from three initial losses to earn a berth in the state playoffs. Since 1948 Chapel Hill had not participated in these playoffs; no team in the conference had gone beyond the state semifinals in nine years. The Wildcats possessed an unusual amount of depth and experience. Spirit and desire played a key role in the team's successful campaign this year.

Chapel Hill Finishes as Western III-A Runner-up

Chapel Hill's offense outscored eleven opponents 218-87. "The four horsemen," Donnie Clark, David Gibson, Danny Leigh, and Tim Riggsbee paced the running game. Four top-notch ends, Tommy Brickhouse, Eugene Hines, Marion Merritt, and Phil Walker spearheaded the Wildcats' aerial game. The workhorses of the interior line, Tim Farmer, Charlie Brickhouse, Tony Chapin, Arthur Dockery, and Donnie Carroll, continually made the necessary blocks to keep the Wildcat offense moving.

The Wildcats played hard-nosed defense throughout the year. The first unit allowed only six points to be scored against them in conference play. Donnie Pendergrass foiled several drives with his numerous pass interceptions and fumble recoveries. Defensive stalwarts were Eugene Hines, Tim Farmer, David Gibson, David Hughes, and Arthur Dockery. In each of the four defeats of the year, Chapel Hill never lost by more than seven points.

Hardwood Season:

In the first half of the season, the Wildcats displayed their team strenght by defeating all other conference teams except Northern. The Chapel Hill basketball team led the conference in defense by holding their opponents to an average of only 45 points a game. Although lacking height, the 'Cats had the highest team rebounding average in the conference. Bo Wells, the team's 6'3" pivot man, led the conference with an average of over 14 rebounds a game. CHHS also took top honors in shooting accuracy. Trevor Sharp and Bo Wells, each averaging 15 points a game at mid-season, sparked the offense. Scott Wallace, Donnie Pendergrass, Pat Thompson, and Phil Walker manned the forward positions as Jamie Gutierrez, Graham Burch, and Tim Riggsbee filled the backcourt positions.

The best of the opening games was against Hillsboro on Dec. 8. The Wildcats out-maneuvered the Panthers, defeating them 56-45. On Jan. 23, Southern fell to the Wildcats, as Sharp scored 26 points and Wells scored 24 to pace the Wildcats in a 74-56 victory. With an early season record of 8-2, Chapel Hill made a strong bid in the conference tournament.

CHHS's Catfish Meet Stiff Competition

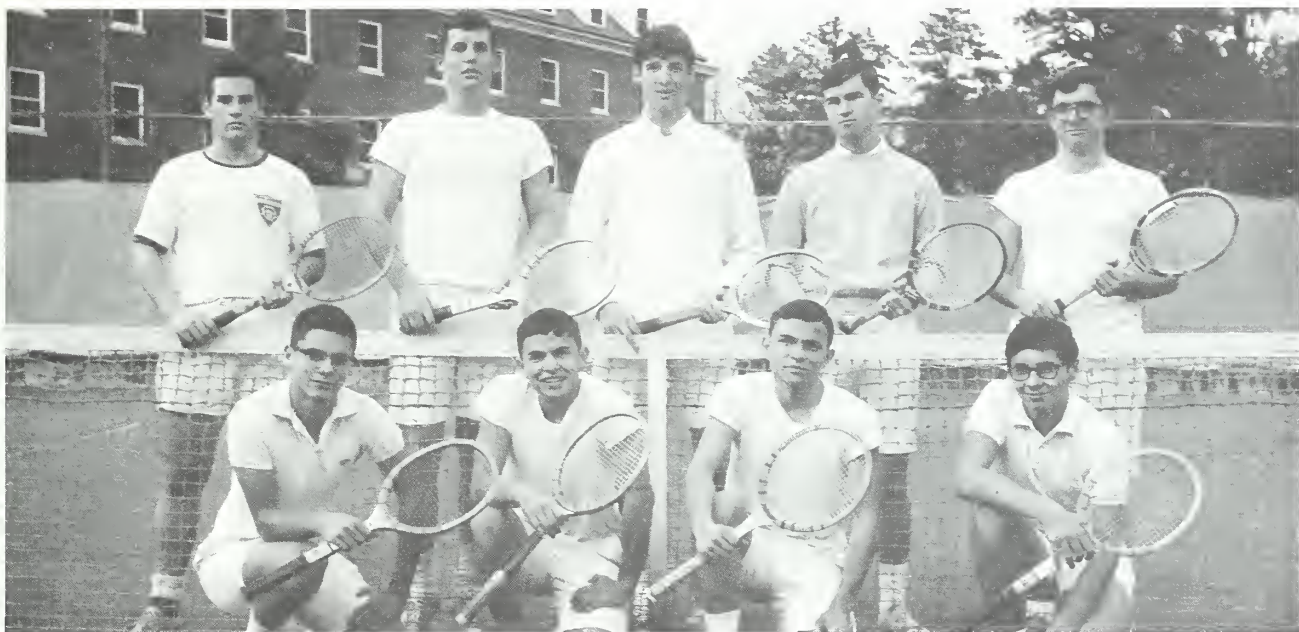

The large turnout for the swimming team improved 1964's record of 1-6. The Catfish had to practice at 7:00 A.M. because the pool was in use in the afternoon. Nevertheless, the swimmers showed enthusiasm and dedication. Led by high scorers Doug Anderson, Doug Behrmon, and William Daland, the Catfish made good showings against 4-A high schools and the UNC freshmen. Outstanding sophomores were George Adkins and Louis Perlmutter.

Netters and Golfers Show Great Promise in 1965

With Keith Mansfield, Bruce Mansfield, and Bo Wells, the top three players from last year returning, the prospects for the 1965 tennis team were extremely good. Other returning players and newcomers showed promise and added to the success of the season.

The great potential of many veterans and newcomers sparked the linksmen in golf's second year at CHHS. This year's team improved on 1964's fourth place rating in the conference. Returnee Steve Oakely captured individual scoring honors in 1964.

Track Team Captures Many Top Honors

Bill Wood puts discus in orbit.

The 1964 track team finished second in the conference and the 1965 track team also promised to rank high in the conference standings. Under the leadership and instruction of coach Bob Hart, the thinclads achieved great ability and many successes.

The cindermen expected to gain most of their points in the dashes and relays. Pete Beebe, Mike Beebe, Scott Thompson, Alan Bream, Charles Rogers, and Mark Burnett led the sprinters and baton passers. Seniors Kern Buckner and Pete Ronman and a quartet of juniors, Ed Carson, Peter Kachergis, Colin Stewart, and Paul Evans, displayed their great endurance by participating in the distance runs for Chapel Hill. Suffering losses from graduation, the field events could claim only two returning lettermen, Tim Farmer, holder of the conference record in the shot put, and Bill Wood, who together paced the conference in the shot and discus. Other promising prospects in the field events were Vic Lipscomb and Jansen Buckner, pole vault; Stanley Vickers, broad jump; and Lance Peacock, high jump.

Harriers Finish Ninth in State Cross Country

The 1964 cross country team swept to victory against predominantly 4-A competition, which included Fayetteville, Durham, and New Hanover High Schools. The harriers chalked up a 13-1 record and placed ninth in the state meet.

Led by captain Kern Buckner and other seniors Pete Ronman, Jansen Buckner, and Mike Beebe, the harriers developed their talents through a great deal of hard work. Juniors and sophomores who paced the Wildcats were Ed Carson, Peter Kachergis, Colin Stewart, Paul Evans, and Donnie Sumner.

Baseball Closes Best Year for Wildcat Athletics

As spring brought warm weather to Chapel Hill, the Wildcats took to the baseball diamond. For the third straight year, the baseballers had an outstanding season. Two years ago, the baseball team earned the state III-A runner-up title, while last year's team finished their season as conference co-champions with a 9-4 record. The returning seniors brought back valuable experience gained in the last two campaigns. Batting strength, pitching prowess, and overall versatility were the keys to the team's success.

Among the players manning the infield were returning lettermen Danny Leigh, pitcher; Donnie Clark, catcher; Tim Riggsbee, short stop; and Jamie Gutierrez, second base. Other Wildcats in the infield were Phil Walker, Price Heusner and Graham Burch. Veterans in the outfield were Howard Oakes and Donnie Pendergrass.

In their first three conference games, Chapel Hill lost by slim margins. Oxford defeated the Kittens by five points, and Roxboro won with a four point margin. On February 5, the Kittens, led by Mary Drogas, defeated Roxboro, the number one team in the conference. The following week, Oxford and Henderson defeated Chapel Hill by respective scores, 30-23 and 24-19. With a record of eight defeats and two victories, the Kittens secured fifth position in the conference ratings.

The Chapel Hill cheerleaders, led by Bev Morgan, were a familiar sight at pep rallies, at football and basketball games, and in the school hall, dressed in their colorful uniforms. They were helpful in directing students to games, in securing transportation for the games, and in publicizing sports events.

"Let's hear you yell!" shouts Susan Patterson.

The cheerleaders helped to organize the pep committee, which boosted school spirit with banners and spirit tags. They also decorated the football field for Homecoming in November and sponsored the Cheerleaders Ball in March.

Homecoming '64 will be remembered as an outstanding night for all Wildcats. In a ferocious feline battle, the mighty Wildcats of Chapel Hill downed the Panthers of Hillsboro 25-0.

The first quarter showed the most action on the part of the 'Cats. Runs by Tim Riggsbee and Donnie Clark, and a Danny Leigh to Gene Hines pass put the score to 18-0. The second quarter brought the last touchdown by David Gibson and an extra point.

Following the game, the football players were introduced at an appropriately decorated dance. Students celebrated the victory to the music of the Count IV Combo. The crowning of the queens climaxed the already eventful evening, reflecting the hard work and careful preparation of the Student Council.

Jrs. Paint Town in Best Jr.-Sr. Ever

The junior class of 1964 "Painted the Town Red" for class of '65 with the Junior-Senior in the spring. The juniors had slaved with bake sales, the selling of calendars, dances, and Junior Fallies to raise money for this long-awaited occasion.

With saphamores as their servants, juniors and seniors feasted on "Wall Street Greens," "Empire Steak," "Rackefeller Centers," "Imparted Grass de Central Park," and "Greenwich Delight" at the Stark Club of Chapel Hill Senior High School. Following this banquet, the dance took place among the many skyscrapers, tenement houses, parks, and night clubs of New York City.

It was but yesterday we met in a dream.

You have sung to me in my aloneness, and I of your longings have built a tower in the sky.

But now our sleep has fled and our dream is over, and it is no longer dawn.

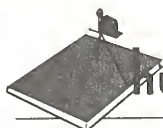

The noontide is upon us and our half waking has turned to fuller day, and we must part.

If in the twilight of memory we should meet once more, we shall speak again together and you shall sing to me a deeper song.

And if our hands should meet in another dream we shall build another tower in the sky.

The Prophet
